For Dyspepsia, Constipation, Biliousness, Chronic Diarrhea, Jaundice, Impurity of the Blood, Fevers, Ague, Malaria, and all Diseases caused by Derangement of Liver, Bowels and Biliary System.

SYMPTOMS OF A DISEASED LIVER.
Bad breath; Pain in the right side, sometimes in the left; Under the Shoulder-blade, mistaken for Rheumatism; general loss of appetite; Bile generally colored, sometimes alternating with lax; Headache, or dizziness, sometimes a prickling sensation with considerable loss of memory; Accompanied with pain in the right side, a slight, dry cough and flushed face is sometimes an attendant, often mistaken for colds, or influenza, or even for nervousness and delirium; nervous, easily startled, and full of fears, sometimes a prickling sensation of the skin extant, spirits are low and depressed, and, although the patient may be very healthy, yet one can hardly suppose any fatality to be attached to the disease, but it is a serious one, and should be attended to at once, as it is the forerunner of all the diseases of the liver, and has been extensively deranged.

It should be used by all persons, old and young, whenever any of the above symptoms appear.

Persons Traveling or Living in Unhealthy Localities, by taking a dose occasionally, keep the Liver in healthy action, and avoid all Malaria, Bilious attacks, Fevers, Nausea, Headaches, Depression of Spirits, etc. It is the most perfect and reliable of all the medicines for the Liver, and is not intoxicating.

If you have eaten anything hard of digestion, or fed heartily, or overindulged in night, take a dose and you will be relieved.

Time and Doctors' Bills will be saved by always keeping the Regulator.

IT IS PURELY VEGETABLE.
And has all the power and efficacy of Calomel or Quinine, without any of the injurious after effects.

A Governor's Testimony.
Simmons' Liver Regulator has been in use in my family for some time, and I am satisfied it is a valuable addition to the medical science.

Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, of Ga., writes: "I have derived some benefit from it, and I am satisfied it is a valuable addition to the medical science."

"The only thing that never fails to relieve me," I have used many remedies for Dyspepsia, Liver Affection and Biliousness, but never have I found any so beneficial as the Simmons' Liver Regulator. I have used it for many years, and it has always given me relief, and I would advise all who are similarly afflicted to give it a trial, as it seems the only thing that never fails to relieve me."

Dr. T. W. Mason says: "From actual experience in the use of Simmons' Liver Regulator in my practice, I have been and am satisfied to use and prescribe it as a purgative medicine."

Lines to One Away.

With only light the morning breaks
With gladsome beams to crown the day,
And with its pure and chastened light,
Will come sweet thoughts of one away.
The morning sun resplendent shines
O'er nature clad in brighter array,
And with the splendor of its beams,
Will come kind thoughts of one away.
The busy world is hushed and still,
The evening zephyrs gently play,
And in that calm, sequestered hour
My spirit turns to one away.

There's not a thought within my breast,
There's not a feeling that bears sway,
But's linked with all that's pure and good
And turns with joy to one away.

Dream on, my heart, and deem no harm,
The light of love, how pure its ray?
Dream on, and in thy fondness prove
Faithful to one that is away.

One whispered with I now will breathe
And then shall cease my simple lay,
Kind heaven, protect and cherish still
Blessings on one that is away.

Why are Coughs and Colds so Prevalent?
Even in the mild summer time, so many people get colds and die with consumption. Rogers' Liverwort, Tar and Camphor will cure them. It stands at the head of all cough medicines. Thousand of lives have been saved by its use; try it.

Obituary.
Mrs. Anna Austin was born in Montgomery county, Maryland, February the 14th, 1794, and died at the residence of Horace Hocker, near Liberty church, Ohio county, Kentucky, January 19th, 1883, being nearly 89 years old. In early childhood, she, with her parents, emigrated from Maryland to Mulberry county, Kentucky, where she lived until she had attained womanhood, after which, she moved to Ohio county and was married to John Austin who preceded her to the grave many years ago. Her maiden name was Robinson, being a sister of the late Rev. John Robinson of the Kentucky conference, and was the last living of a long lived family. Her only sister, Mrs. Harriet Hocker, died a few years ago at the advanced age of 94 years, lacking only a few days. For perhaps more than three score years and ten, aunt Anna, as she was familiarly called during the long years of her widowhood, had been a professor of the Christian religion and a member of the Methodist church, not only a professor, but her long life was an exemplification of its purity. Through her period longer than that allotted to man on earth by the bible, her course was ever steady, consistent and forward. Never tired, never ready to turn back. All along the checkered scenes of her existence, even when the shadows of life had lengthened out, her faith was unflinching and she often expressed herself as only waiting for the boatman's pole, waiting patiently but watching earnestly for the last summons. This closed the long life of this good woman. A peaceful close, so peaceful that in death she looked to be only sleeping. For nearly 70 years her name has stood on the rolls of the church militant, but now it has been transposed to that of the church triumphant. During these long years she has answered to the roll-call here, but her voice has surely now answered to the roll-call of heaven.

Best of All.

Revival Notice.
Cromwell, Feb. 14th, 1883.
Editor Herald:
I have just closed a meeting of twenty days at New Zion Church, Ohio county, Kentucky. There were thirty-two additions to the church. I have baptized twenty-two and there are five yet awaiting the ordinance. The Lord has abundantly blessed his means in the salvation of many, for which we are glad at heart and praise His holy name. Brother Davis preached for us twice and Brother Jarman for three times. They did most excellent service. I desire the prayers of all my brethren.

Lyon County.
KITTAWA, Ky., Feb. 8, 1883.
Editor Herald:
As a line or two from this little village may not be unacceptable, I venture a little scribbling and to begin with that which we all know most about is the first in the mind, that is the weather, how it has been in the town of Hartford or in your far off county, I know not, but here in Kittawa it has been severe; the streets are covered so with ice that pedestrians can scarcely keep their feet under the center of gravity, and such was the general state of things that business of all kinds was nearly suspended for several days, the saloons being the only winning place of abode. It seems to me that the climate of all the States has come here to change for sometime; the consequence is our people suffer much from colds taken from these changes. You often meet persons so afflicted with colds, especially in the head, that you can scarcely understand them on account of nasal eczema—I mean their noses are stopped up, hence the phrase, glad to meet you, is now glad to "beat" you. I bet a ban dowl here just dowl who slipped dowl and hurt himself.

J. A. Cummins, of Willis Point, Texas, who was arrested at Princeton last fall, supposed to be the Cummins that was for so long a member of the James gang, has brought suit in the United States Circuit Court at Louisville against J. W. Oliver and R. R. Pickering, sheriffs of Lyon and Caldwell counties, for $10,000 damage. Oliver worked up the case and followed his man to Princeton and requested Pickering to arrest him, which he did upon the positive allegations of Oliver and others. Cummins proved himself clear and was set at liberty, which caused him to bring suit for the above amount. J. McHenry Tichenor, agent and operator at Edgelyville, leaves to-day on a visit to his parents in Ohio county. Jack, as he is commonly called, said he was bound to go and see his well-known parents. Mr. R. A. Hendra, of Rockport, Ky., has charge of the office while Mack is absent.

Success to the Herald and Anderson's Bazaar is the wish of yours,
J. J. TILFORD.

Owensboro Gossip.
Sunday was such a bad day that all the churches had very small congregations.

The "Herodian Mystery," a small drama, is reaping a rich harvest of small coin on Frederica street.

The dulcet tones of the patent medicine vender will soon herald the approach of Spring.

Geo. Smith was convicted of forgery in the Circuit Court Saturday, and he will go to the penitentiary for a term of two years.

C. C. Lashbrook, convicted of passing counterfeit money, has motioned for a new trial.

The wharfboat now lies within a few feet of the curling on First street. The old stream has really "got her back up" to an alarming extent.

Owensboro has not had a red-hot revival of religion for some time past. And yet the old town doesn't seem to be awfully wicked after all.

The Louisville, St. Louis & Texas Railroad boom is beginning to subside. About every two out of three fire alarms in this city prove false. The law should deal with these miscreants to its fullest extent.

If it be true that indictments have been found against several well-known young men of this place for fornication, the watering places will have a rare influx of visitors about the next term of court. Certain it is that the w. k. y. court. Pertain their "grips" with the avidity that an Owensboro policeman tackles a free lunch, and he himself comes off.

Dr. Coleman, the pastor of the Walnut street Baptist church, failed to show up on the day set for his debate with Rev. Mr. Hays. Dr. Hays was in town.

If Hartford has any more as clever men as Sam Hill who wants a change of base, please send over. We will receive them all with open arms.

Geo. V. Triplett is making the Post fairly teem with good things from his pen. The Post is the leading paper here, and well it deserves to be. Mr. Triplett will make the race for Representative again.

Enterprises of every kind seem lacking here, and fortunes go a begging for want of men of pluck and capital to pick 'em up. Verily, Owensboro is an old fog town. BRIMBLE.

A Wonderful Mathematical Prodigy.
Mr. Reuben Fields, the most noted mathematician of this or any other age, resides in Fayetteville, Johnson county, Missouri. He was born in Bath county, Kentucky, in the year 1851 and removed to Missouri when seventeen years old. Reuben is very illiterate, knowing neither figures nor letters, having never attended school but two days. During his second day of schooling, his teacher discovered that in an incredibly short space of time he could solve mentally any problem in mathematics propounded to him. Reuben, on returning home, informed his parents that he knew more than his instructor, and, indeed, more than his books contained, having graduated in mathematics in two days. He has made no effort since to gain information from books. He calculates mentally, but cannot explain the modus operandi to others. He will tell you that there is no limit to his multiplication table, and that he can multiply any numbers given, or fractions as readily as we can 2 by 2 and that subtraction, addition, etc., are no more difficult. Lightning calculations, interest tables, etc., are of no use when he is present, as he can make the calculations before you could turn to them. In less than five seconds he can tell you the interest on any amount for any number of days, months or years at any rate of interest, and as remarkable as it may appear, he makes no mistakes. Reuben can make all the calculations necessary to complete an almanac faster than you can set the type.

Give him the date of your birth and he will readily tell you the day of the week on which you were born. Merchants of St. Louis and Kansas City call for Reuben's assistance in invoicing their mammoth stock of merchandise—by so doing, they save an immense amount of labor, as he can make all the computations faster than the clerks can make the entries. He has a most remarkable memory. You may call out the extensions on a ledger, commencing at the top and continuing to the bottom and he will immediately tell you the total amount and can repeat every number in its order, commencing either at bottom or top of page.

What I have written will give your readers a very faint idea of what appears to be a supernatural gift possessed by this remarkable man; but the half is not told, as independent of this gift, Reuben is a perfect timepiece within himself. Watches, clocks or sundials are of no use to Reuben, as he can give you the real, mean or railroad time to a second at any time or place, either night or day. You may awake him out of a profound sleep and strange to say, you will find his time equally correct. Some of your readers may be incredulous enough to doubt my statements respecting this wonder of the world; if so, I have only to say that Reuben is still living and in fine health and bids fair to enjoy a long life and cheerfully verify my statements at any time by actual demonstration.—Nelson Record.

J. C. R.

Washington Letter.
February 12th, 1883.

In spite of the inclemency of the weather, it being, according to the oldest inhabitants, the worst winter known at the Capitol, Congress is in remarkably good health. This seems all the more remarkable when it is known that both Houses have been holding night sessions, which are not unusually protracted until eleven o'clock. But herein lies the secret of the robust health of Congress. While winter rages without in east wind, snow, the vast Capitol of the United States has the climates of Florida, and Members and Senators, cut off from their accustomed natural life supporters and drinking bouts, are enjoying the good health which regular hours, abstinence and temperance surely bring.

Still harping on the tariff is what may be said of both the House and the Senate. They are near the end of debate on this subject, because they are near the end of the session, but it can't be said they are any nearer the solution of this vexed question than they were one week ago.

As for society, dear, mealy mouthed society! she is now trying the pious dodge and devotional racket. She arises early and goes to church every morning, and in the afternoon, she goes to vespers; then in the evening she goes to the theatre, or pulls down the blinds and has a game of cards or a dance at home.

What a beautiful thing is religion with all the latest improvements and novelties! The Lenten season is observed more formally in Washington than in any other city of the United States. Many society people, and especially those of the army and navy, are Catholics and they are very punctilious in their observance of this season. It is plain, even to a casual observer, that the Catholics have made a great effort to establish themselves firmly in Washington. They have no less than nine church edifices here, as well as a University, Convents, Schools, Asylums and Hospitals.

Government clerks are still much agitated over Representative Cannon's bill to make them do a fair day's work of eight hours. Notwithstanding the too large number of clerks employed, government work is so much behind hand that a number of clerks have been discharged for idleness, and Congress has the force of clerks. Congressmen Cannon, to whom the request was referred, deserves a monument for suggesting that the work could be accomplished by making those now employed work earlier and later. Congress can doubtless enact that Government employees shall be in the department eight hours, but to make them work; ah, there is the rub! To whom are the Examiners in the Patent office responsible if they prefer to read novels at their desks instead of examining and acting upon the thousand applications for patents now pending in the Patent Office? It is impossible for the Commissioner of patents to discharge the shirks and idlers of the examining corps, for they are each one backed by political influence as good as that of the Commissioner himself. So it is with all the Government offices; the chiefs have no power over their subordinates cannot discharge them for neglect, incompetence or idleness, because they have been appointed and are held in their places by their uncle or patron, a Republican Senator or Member. But it is too frequently the case that the Chiefs of Bureau are as incompetent and lazy as any of the clerks.

Nothing will improve the civil service but to clean it out, root and branch, and supply its place with an entirely new plant. The people of this country may as easily gather grapes from thorns and figs from thistles as get honest competent work from the thousand of cousins, sisters, brothers, aunts, uncles and mothers in law of Republican Senators and Members with which the offices of the United States Government are gorged.

Hon. Elijah Nuttall.

"Reading about the style in which Judge Jackson's court is described by a correspondent of the Albany, N. Y. Press, remarked an old and well-known attorney yesterday, 'reminds of the time when old Judge Elijah Nuttall was riding the Frankfort Circuit. There was a curious individual for you, and he had a funny way of running his court, yet one of his decisions was published in almost every paper in the United States and even in the London Times.'"

"It was way long about the latter part of the fifties when a funny thing occurred which illustrated the character of the old Judge. He was then holding court at Frankfort, and one day a circus came to town. There was a large elephant connected with
